

2010 Donna Weaver Shining Star Award Recipient

Maggie Stewart has been very active in moving RSVP into high impact programs such as Afterschool Adventures and Community Watch. She serves as vice-chair on the RSVP advisory council and has brought forth some excellent ideas and has taken steps to follow through with positive results. Maggie also does an excellent job giving RSVP a voice on the Brooke County Committee on Aging Board. Maggie, a RSVP volunteer for six years, served 74 hours assisting with fundraising events for Easter Seals, RSVP, and Brooke County Visitors Center. She assisted Valley Hospice with Light up a Life along with other human needs such as serving on numerous boards and committees. Maggie has completed CERT training and has assisted with food and bedding distribution in emergencies during flooding within Brooke County. She is a Community Watch Captain within third ward of City of Follansbee and has participated in events such as the neighborhood watch yard sale. Maggie's most recent project was serving on the RSVP Advisory Council Afterschool Adventures Committee, where she took charge and pushed forward in organizing and promoting the program by speaking at local elementary PTA's and passing out flyers at the local Middle School. Maggie has also participated in fundraising for snacks and supplies by submitting a letter of request for funding to local law board. She has organized a meeting of feedback with volunteers after school was out to assist with preparation for next year. She donated 44.5 hours toward Afterschool Adventures in 2009 and helped 10 children with homework, afterschool events and science projects and activities such as board games, computer learning games and wii games and served and participated with free meals. Maggie has a positive spirit and fun to work with; she is an asset to the RSVP program.
